tion, supposedly pacifist, gained control of the entire celebration. "The thousands we left dead in France," said the commander, "looked down in sorrow a year ago when just one military man was in the long parade that wound its way through Boston."

"That these same thousands are looking down in sadness today for they know that we, their pals, have repudiated these pacifists and all that they stand for."

VETS OF A WAR MARCH.
Hordes of these veterans, proudly bearing aloft the standards that had earned at Gettysburg, at San Juan Hill and in the Argonne.

The lines of the Union forces, the lines of the Spanish-American war, and the olive drab of the World War heroes, all combined in a great color scheme as the long line marched through the city streets.

Though the chill winds of the early morning kept many persons from the street, before the 10,000 marchers had filed their way a short distance from the starting point, crowds began to assemble on the sidewalks, and particularly in front of the reviewing stand at the State House, where Lieutenant-Governor Allen reviewed the parade, and at the bandstand on the Common.

With Acting Governor Allen on the reviewing stand were Commander William McGinnis of the American Legion, General John H. Dunn, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Commander W. F. Brown, G. A. R., Captain Henry Lawson, Joseph T. Uman, past commander of Navy Post, V. F. W., Major-General Walter E. Lombard, Spanish War Veterans, Captain Charles L. Store and Major Robert O. Dalton of the Governor's staff, Councilors George E. Curran and Charles L. Burrill, and Mrs. Maria D. Graves of Northford, representing the Legion Auxiliary. We Don't Care How War Started, Says President

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 11.—Who started the war? Who won it? On these two questions, which every foreign nation answers to its own satisfaction, President Coolidge said today:

"We have little need to inquire how that war began. Its day of carnage is done. Nothing is to be gained from recriminations and recriminations. We are attempting to restore the world to a state of better understanding and amity."

"We can leave to others the discussion of who won the war. It is enough for us to know that the side on which we fought was victorious."

MANY AT TOMB OF UNKNOWN SOLDIER

Washington, Nov. 11 (A.P.)—The Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, which rests on a Virginia knoll overlooking the capital, was the Mecca for hundreds today on the eighth anniversary of the armistice.

Before the day was far advanced the base of the simple memorial was covered with wreaths and flowers deposited by the reverent hands of those who lost loved ones in the Great War.

Every Armistice Day since the Unknown was interred at Arlington, the President has led the pilgrims, but today Mr. Coolidge was in Kansas City and the pilgrimages were of a more personal than official nature.

Tribute will be paid today to the memory of Woodrow Wilson at 4 o'clock this afternoon, when a special memorial service will be held in Bethlehem Chapel, Mount St. Alban, where his body lies. Bishop Freeman will conduct the services, and Gordon Grayson, young son of the late President's personal physician, Rear-Admiral C. T. Grayson, will replace a wreath on his tomb in the crypt. Mrs. Wilson and many loyal friends of the War President will attend.

Troops at Fort Meyer paraded during the forenoon, and at 11 o'clock, the hour of the ending of the war, came to "Parade Rest" in memory of those who were killed.

stat, the total value of which was approximately $100,000.

One of these contrabands was a relative of the Boston girl, who, though indicted with the man and woman arrested in Worcester, has not yet been apprehended. This priest is now dead.

The second priest to act as co-trustee is Rev. William McDonough of the par of the Bee Church, East Boston, and it is his name that, according to the charges, was forged to the checks.

The pair arrested by Boston Police Inspector Duggan and Augustus Francis Mulcahey and Augustus Francis Mulcahey, who is a relative of the Boston girl, is said to be prominent in real estate and insurance business in Worcester.

Threshing out the story of the alleged forgery, police say they learned from one source that the Boston girl acted as nurse for her relative before his death and was displeased because he left all his property to charities. But from another source they profess to have learned that she was left a fractional share of his estate.

She is described as a girl of brains and successful in a business way with no apparent necessity of using illegal means to obtain funds.

Nearly $60,000 is said to have been recovered. Of this amount, police claim to have recovered $1,700 from various stock brokerage concerns in Boston where investments had been made with the money in railroad stocks and other securities.

More than $40,000, more, it is said, was found deposited in the United States Trust Company, while an additional $10,000 was in the National Shawmut Bank in the form of bonds, deposited in a safe-deposit vault.

Lusitania Survivor Drops 'Peace Day' Wreath Into Sea

S. R. Maureland, Nov. 11 (A.P.)—A survivor of the Lusitania, sunk in 1915, today dropped a wreath into the sea as part of the Armistice Day observance of the war.

One of these contrabands was a relative of the Boston girl, who, though indicted with the man and woman arrested in Worcester, has not yet been apprehended. This priest is now dead.

The second priest to act as co-trustee is Rev. William McDonough of the par of the Bee Church, East Boston, and it is his name that, according to the charges, was forged to the checks.

ARREST OF NEW HAMMER SUSPECT ANTICIPATED

reputation, and so everybody accuses him," said Mrs. Winters before the day's session of the inquest began.

"He returned four ago and he is no good to me and the children that I can never believe he did such a thing as kill anybody."

"The wife, who is twenty-five years old, denied her husband was angry at Mrs. Gullivan because, as secretary-treasurer of the Cane Automatic Machine Company, she discharged him. Mrs. Winters declared that not Mrs. Gullivan but Conk, the owner, discharged him."

An important development today was the disclosure by Vermont authorities that Frank L. Conk, employer of Mrs. Gullivan, was automobile riding with her after 10 o'clock on the night of the murder. Thus far he is the last person known to have seen her alive, and while he previously told of paying a visit on the night in question, it was not known that he took her riding, as the investigators now claim. Conk attended Mrs. Gullivan's funeral.

Search for the slayer took a new turn while the inquest was going on, and the authorities, led by State Detective Edwin Brown and Sheriff Willis Fairbanks, had a new suspect introduced into the murder.

The inquest into the murder, which continued today and will last into Friday, has developed a number of witnesses who have testified to attacks or attempted attacks alleged to have been made by Winters.

TO TELL OF ATTACK.
More than a score of additional witnesses are yet to be heard, among them Mrs. Adeline Bader, now living with her mother, Rose Brown, at No. 658 Chestnut street, Manchester, N. H. She will tell of an alleged attack Winters made at the home of his sister, Mrs. Lillian Mott, here, and how she repulsed him after a struggle lasting nearly two hours.

Stoutly maintaining that he was never near the murder house nor where Mrs. Gullivan was attacked, Winters, nevertheless, in mournful tones repeats over and over again, "It looks bad."

And then he falls back upon his alibi that he was drunk and cannot remember what happened.

He has not requested counsel and when offered a lawyer by the State said that no lawyer could help him.

Boysed finding several women who have claimed that Winters had made little progress. They have, however, been unable to find anyone who saw Winters at Hartland, where he says he went to a dance Saturday night, or on the road going or coming.

AUTOIST HURT IN CRASH WITH DORCHESTER CAR

One man was injured and several others were shaken up today when a motor crashed into the side of a tunnel-bound trolley car at Bowdoin street and Geneva avenue, Dorchester, ripping the side door off its car and demolishing the front of the automobile.

Philip Badsky of Mill street, Dorchester, passenger in the sedan, was cut about the head and face with flying glass. The automobile was driven, according to the police by John Barlasian of Templeton street, Dorchester. He was rebound on Geneva avenue where the car plunged in front of him in Bowdoin street and he failed to stop in time.

WILL OF MRS. E. C. ROGERS REVEALED

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Nov. 11 (A.P.)—Mrs. Elizabeth Clark Rogers of Brooklyn, Mass., who was killed in a fall or jump from the window of a room on the fifteenth floor of a New York hotel on November 1, bequeathed approximately $300,000 to the Medical School of Harvard University, according to attorneys here who drew up her will a few days before her death.

Mrs. Rogers was a native of this city, daughter of the late Dr. George C. Clark.

The will is to be probated within a week. The Old Colony Trust Company is executor. One bequest of $15,000 to Harvard is in memory of the parents of her husband, I. Edgar Rogers, at one time principal of a boys' school in New York. The $15,000 had been left the testator by her husband. The other bequest is the residue of Mrs. Rogers' private fortune, estimated at about $300,000, after certain deductions have been paid.

Mrs. Max Clark Robbins, Muncie, Ind., wife of W. D. Robbins, city manager here, nets $25,000. Edward Clark Robbins and Richard Robbins, sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Robbins, are bequeathed the stock owned by Mrs. Rogers in the Ontario Silver Company, Muncie, Ind.

The sum of $25,000 is left in trust to the Niagara Falls Memorial Hospital, in memory of Mrs. Rogers' father.

Miss Mary Murray, this city, is given an annuity from $50,000 and Mrs. Jane Brown, Lakeland, N. Y., is left $10,000 outright.

NEW ENGLAND AT THE TOP OF THRIFT LIST

Massachusetts is the thriftiest state in the Union, with a per capita savings deposits of $518.

This is the finding of the Bureau of Commercial and Industrial Affairs of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. While Massachusetts leads all other states, according to a report of the bureau, the six New England states are among the first eight leading states in per capita savings deposits.

Savings deposits for New England for the year of 1925 amounted to $7,739,140,000, the report states, as compared to $1,739,140,000 in 1913.

The report of the Chamber of Commerce bureau lists the ten leading states in per capita deposits, as follows:

Massachusetts	$518
New York	499
Vermont	493
Connecticut	442
Rhode Island	440
New Hampshire	433
California	392
Maine	387
New Jersey	387
Maryland	355

"Superior banking facilities of the New England states," the report explains, "have gradually built up a confidence among the people in the security of their savings deposits."

"In the mutual savings banks and savings departments of national banks and trust companies, thrift New Englanders are building up reserve funds which some day will provide the means of financing even greater commercial and industrial developments than New England has yet attained."

"Massachusetts has been a leader among all the states in the Union in a realization of the value of secure and easily accessible savings."

The substantial head which Massachusetts has today in savings per capita is probably due not only to the national thrift of its population, but in even greater measure to the confidence in the security and integrity of its banks for which it has been famous throughout the country."

GREATEST HUB TENOR WANTED TO BE BOXER

By FRANCES FARMER.
Chicago, Nov. 11.—It was the youthful ambition of Arnold Lindt, former Boston factory hand, to become a prize fighter. Opening night acclaimed one of the world's greatest tenors, he sang on one of the world's greatest opera stages, that of the Chicago Civic Opera Company.

The rule of Rodham in Verdi's superb opera, "Aida," bringing in the first act a sensational "Caisa Aida" to a close amid tornadoes of applause and resounding shouts.

"I was overwhelmed," Mr. Lindt said in an interview, "by the enthusiasm which marked my reception by my first American audience. I was enraptured. I stood still. I did not know what to do. I am very happy about it all."

"Yes, it is quite true that I wanted to become a prize fighter. You see the American boy has a decided advantage over the little European boy of my generation. The former has a choice of ambitions. He can be a singer or a boxer."

ARMISTICE DAY RESTFUL FOR CHARLOTTE

By CHARLOTTE MILLS

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 11.—With no court session because of the Armistice celebration, I know that today will prove an Armistice, too, for the warring emotions in my heart.

It is a welcome relief to be spared even for one day the torture of hearing the details of my mother's romance and death related in the cold judicial atmosphere of the courtroom. Today I shall rest and seek to turn my mind as far as possible from the nightmare of this trial.

Charlotte Mills

Yesterday I had to leave the courtroom again as physicians were testing about autopsies on my poor mother's body. It seemed that they just couldn't let her rest in peace. It seems to me that if the case had been handled right in the first place all of those autopsies wouldn't have been necessary. It is too horrible to think of. Is there any wonder that I feel faint and had to leave the courtroom?

But in the afternoon I felt better and returned to my home where I sit as a State witness. And I saw the vigorous little prosecutor drawing light the lines of evidence to trap the defendant.

Mr. Albaugh says he saw a Dodge sedan in the line that night of the murder; and Mrs. Hall had a Dodge sedan at the time, as I remember. Then Barbara Tough gave some damning evidence against Mrs. Hall, I thought.

But I was struck with horror when Senator Simpson showed her a razor and asked her to identify it as Dr. Hall's. Evidently the prosecutor will charge that that razor was used to cut my mother's throat. I shiver when I think of it. Miss Tough says she thought Dr. Hall's razor was a little shorter.

She told, too, how everyone was gossiping about my mother and Dr. Hall; so I can hardly believe that Mrs. Hall didn't know about it. It was a great shock to me when Dr. Smith said that he had been paid only $20 for my mother's operation, which Dr. Hall arranged for.

But contrary to many published reports Dr. Hall was not to pay for the operation out of his own pocket. He was to advance the money, and my father was to pay him back monthly. Dad actually did pay about $100 on that bill. I don't understand how Dr. Smith got only $20.

WIFE TELLS OF OTHER WOMAN'S BEAUTIES

"John," was Heath's reply to his wife's lawyer.

"Did you return home the night of the race?"

Confronted with a letter referring to a trip, Heath then admitted that the day at the races was followed by the twenty-four hour journey with the widow.

"Why did you say, then, that you came home that night?" asked the lawyer.

"Well, you asked a foolish question," laughed Heath.

He admitted also having bobbed Mrs. A's hair, but denied that he knew she had it done as she would look as young as he did.

Two small drinks from a flask of gin and a long chat while puffing cigarettes, Heath said, were the harmless diversion enjoyed by him and another unnamed woman, "Mrs. B."

In a Hudson hotel room where they were surprised by Mrs. Heath and the police.

This woman, described by Mrs. Heath as "a peach," is now dead, according to the husband, but the wife's lawyer made it plain that he does not believe it.

"She wrote to me that she had heard about my wife's first divorce suit and she wanted to hear from me," said Heath, telling of Mrs. B. "I got her a room at the hotel and she produced a German flask filled with gin. I only took two small drinks."

"After we talked and smoked till midnight I started to go. She asked me to get a drink of water, and I got it. I didn't had I brought it into the room when there were three crooks at the door, and my wife and the police were there."

"How much do you love your wife now?" he was asked.

"Well, when I first married her, she was a wonderful girl," replied Heath. "She's not so good now."

"Well, how much do you love her?"

"Oh, so-so."

"Do you consider her pretty?"

"No. In plain English, I'll tell you she's not so good as when we were married, but I am."

"Don't be putting yourself on the back. Tell us if you think she is good-looking."

"Well, she's fair, she'll pass in a crowd. She never was really pretty. I didn't marry her for her beauty. Her releasing feature is a sweet disposition."

"How about Della and a girl they call 'Red,' and the other girls you know?"

"Well, I have a lot of girls, but there's nothing wrong in my friendships. They all come to see me, but everything I do is right in the public eye."

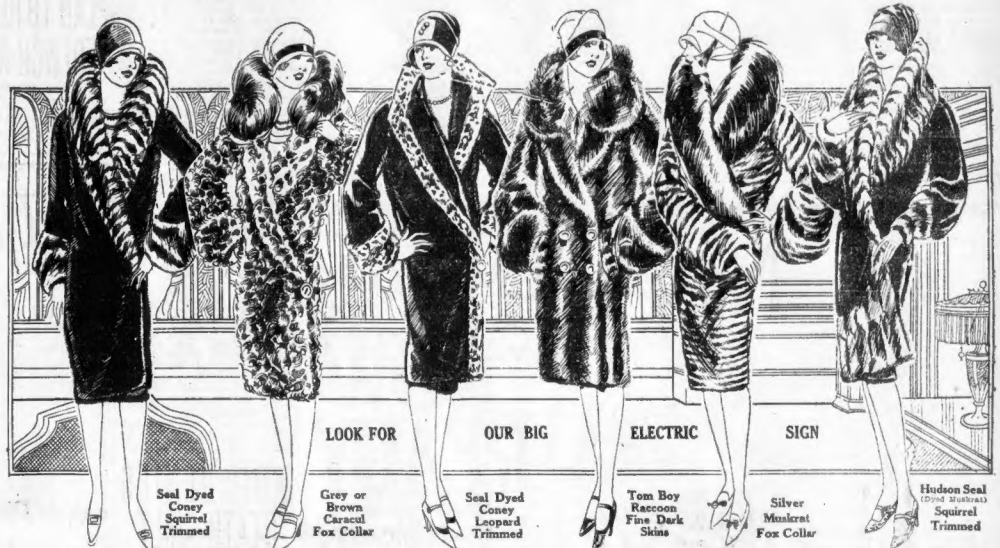

"I offer right now to kiss and make up, but I bet my wife won't do it," he said.

Telling of the charms of "Mrs. B.," Mrs. Heath said during a recess in the trial: "She is a beautiful blonde. The night I saw her in the hotel room, she had on a big picture hat that drooped on the side, making a wonderful frame for her white skin."

"She's a bobbed blonde, with his blue eyes and beautiful teeth, a perfect nose and the most wonderful complexion I ever saw. You should see her live! How my husband got her I don't know, but he certainly picked a peach."

PERSHING SEES PERIL IN 'SALE OF ELECTIONS'

Chicago, Nov. 11 (A.P.)—The Board of the United States will not be far off "if the time ever comes when public offices can be virtually bought and sold, either directly or indirectly," General John J. Pershing, war-time commander of the American Expeditionary Forces, declared today before a meeting of Kiwanis clubs here.

"In the light of recent events in certain states," he said, "none of our citizens would modify the methods of selecting candidates for office. If the present system of patronage or permits the contribution of money to influence the selection of candidates or their support, it should receive the most careful scrutiny by honest citizens."

U. S. FACTOR IN VICTORY.

"The presumption that large expenditures for campaign purposes may be made without ulterior motives does not appear to be warranted. To sanction the expenditure of enormous amounts of money to secure the nomination of candidates for office would be to exclude unjustly all but the wealthy from such contests."

General Pershing asserted that the great part taken by our country in the World War, adding that there is little doubt that the war would have terminated earlier, had it not been for the extraordinary assistance sent by Edison to Show Them He Was and Is a Telegrapher.

Orange, N. J., Nov. 11 (A.P.)—Thomas A. Edison, the most famous man who ever founded a telegraph instrument for a living, today planned to test his ability with the sending key in a contest with railroad executives and officials of his own companies.

The inventor left today on a special train with a large party for New Village, N. J., to inspect improvements in the Edison Power and Light Plant here.

America arrived at the critical moment.

URGENT PREPARATIONS. He made a plan for preparations, contending that "if we could have armed and equipped even half a million men and sent them to France early in 1917, the probability is that the war could have been won that year."

He also appealed for the maintenance of law and order, quoting statistics to prove the existence of "a veritable reign of terror in many places" in the United States.

BRITISH MINERS READY TO RENEW NEGOTIATIONS

London, Nov. 11 (A.P.)—The British conference of the Miners' Federation today "authorized the executive to continue negotiations with the government unreservedly," according to an official statement.

The conference is understood to have taken no definite action on the peace proposals submitted by the government providing for district agreements and an eight-hour day, which were unfavorable to the miners, but it was understood that they will meet with the Cabinet tonight.

SAYS WIFE WAS ANGEL OR HUB CULT HOME

The troubles of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand De Jony, which include a pending divorce suit and two pending suits for the alienation of Mrs. De Jony's affections, were further complicated today, when De Jony, a 35-year-old farmer, of Weston, petitioned Judge McCool in Norfolk Probate Court to appoint a conservator for his wife's estate.

De Jony said his wife in 1924, by giving away her entire fortune to Walter M. Weston and Eleanor Mabel, who conquit, De Jony said, the home of truth, a cult on Newbury street, Boston.

In the pending suits, De Jony seeks $50,000 damages from Weston and the Mabel woman, respectively, charging that they have alienated his wife's affections.

His wife, in answer, filed divorce (in) against De Jony, charging cruel and abusive treatment.

De Jony told the court of letters he had found between his wife and Weston, and he also showed many checks made out to Weston, which he said his wife had made out, though the signatures had been torn off.

Two of these checks were for more than $500 each, and others for $250 and $400.

De Jony said his wife had sold a 60-acre farm, with all its houses, barns and farming paraphernalia, for $44,000 farm. He said his own $100,000 part of the 400-acre farm, Mrs. De Jony lives now at the home of truth, her husband said, while he lives in Weston.

between becoming a star of his native arena and becoming pugilist. I had no such choice."

When at the age of 13 the man who appears to be the choice of the gods as Chicago's matinee idol, his excellence during the forthcoming opera season, became a workman in a Boston plant factory, he said, he says that he was at least in the way to the realm of the heroic ambition of becoming a pugilist.

"I built them and I moved them—these places," Mr. Lindt said, "and I was some success, believe me." At the tender age of seven, Lindt ran away from his home in Sweden—ran away to the mine at 11th street. He got a job as a breaker boy and supplemented a twelve-hour shift in a coal mine with a three-hour stint in a night school, dreaming, meanwhile, of a land across the sea, a land of opportunity. On his fourteenth birthday, America's new lion landed in Boston.

"I was in Boston only a short time," Lindt said, "when I joined the Swedish choir of which Gustaf Anderson is the director. It was Anderson who discovered my voice. One night a man from the Boston Opera Company came over to one of our rehearsals. He was looking for singers for a performance of 'Aida.' I was among those chosen. I cannot describe to you the effect upon me of the performance of that superb opera."

"I had never been in an opera house before. I was thrilled, lifted up. Above all, I was inspired with the ambition to become a great singer. Continuing to support myself by means of my work in the piano factory, I began a serious study of music."

"After I went to New York and studied for five years with Mme. Dore, nothing was left for me but to support myself. One evening, being my name at the cabaret, I went over to Hunter College and sang the 'Lament' from 'Pagliacci.' John Abernethy, who was in the audience offered to finance European study for me."

"Two months after I reached Europe I was engaged for a tour. Toscanini invited me to open the La Scala season in Milan. And shortly afterward Toscanini invited me to open the La Scala season in Milan."

Feminine opera fans got a thrill when, upon his arrival at the hotel, it was discovered that the great Swedish tenor is a bachelor.

MURDERER'S DEATH GUILT

Taking the witness stand in his own defense in Middlesex Superior Court, William C. Morse, charged with the murder of Frederick Clement, Burlington garage man, today denied all guilt in the slaying.

"I know nothing of the killing of Clement," Morse declared on the stand.

Fred Morse who placed in the garage on the night of the slaying, told him, Morse said, that he had been given money by Edgar Graham, the slain man's partner, to "put me away."

Before the close of the State's case, Chief Justice Edward F. O'Neill testified that Morse under grilling had named Fred Morse and Hattie Morse, acquaintances, as the killers. O'Neill quoted Morse as admitting that Morse had informed him to this effect.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIAL HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST

Mrs. Anna Coleman Ladd Leaves Hub for New York Studio

BOSTON WILL SEE VERY LITTLE OF ITS FAVORITE AND FAMOUS SCULPTRESS. Mrs. Anna Coleman Ladd, during the next few months. Mrs. Ladd writes me that some very interesting commissions will keep her at work in the Big City for some time to come. She's simply immersed in work at her New York studio, in East 57th street, at No. 430. Burning with the fires of true genius, Mrs. Ladd literally buries herself in her studio, denying herself to visitors and household alike.

WHEN SHE EMERGES from this self-imposed retirement her friends know that there's another spirited achievement born created from her facile hand and active brain, an achievement that deserves every

TWO DAUGHTERS of Dr. and Mrs. Ladd, not artistically but studiously inclined, are following the path of high learning at that renowned college for women, Vassar, up the Hudson.

MRS. GABRIELLA came home during her first year to be presented by her mother at a tea at the Clarendon street home, and now Miss Vernon Ladd, younger girl, follows in Miss Gabriella's footsteps, toward a college sheepskin.

DR. LADD will join Mrs. Ladd later in New York, and the two girls will find it very simple to come down to the Big City for weekends or longer intervals a way from the campus.

A STAGNANT LADD admirer has told me that the very biggest things in the Ladd career are in the making. Considering Mrs. Ladd's climb up fame's ladder, such a statement carries a deal of weight.

PERHAPS IN THIS ENTIRE bud set there's no girl of more interesting family background than Miss Natalie Potter, granddaughter of Professor Charles E. Sargent of beautiful "Helm Lea" out in Brookline.

I WERE COMPILING a "Most Interesting Bud" list Miss Potter would surely be on it and have a top-most place. Mrs. Guy Lowell, wife of the architect, is an aunt and her father was the late Dr. Potter.

FOLLOWING DR. POTTER'S death, Mrs. Nathaniel Bowditch Potter and her daughter, Miss Natalie, made their home in Paris, later coming over to New York and taking an apartment.

NOW THE YOUNG GIRL is being presented to society in Boston, and "Helm Lea" is festive in the debutante manner. Professor Sargent and Miss Alice Sargent, his daughter, are doing the honors, and no bud could make her entree under more auspicious sponsorship.

ON TUESDAY THERE was a tea, and tomorrow evening there is a dance, both out at "Helm Lea," which is known the country over as possessing a garden gem of richest floral beauty.

Slim Figure Craze Deaths 370 Out of Every 100,000

Binghamton, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Of every 100,000 deaths among women 370 are due to the craze for a boyish figure, says John Bradford, secretary of the National Hygienic and Recreation Association.

and went to Mrs. Arnold's room on the top floor.

The door was locked on the inside, the key still in the lock. The coroner forced the door and Miss Norrie found the woman dead on the bed in a water of blood.

Dr. Walter H. Bennett was called. He judged the woman had died, thirty-four hours before, from a hemorrhage. He notified Medical Examiner Leary, who notified police of the Bick Bay Division.

Miss Norrie believed dead was raised as the woman had been under a doctor's care for some time and only recently had returned from a hospital. The fact that the woman was found in the bed and that there was no fire escape left credence to her theory.

BOSTON'S COLD WAVE PASSING ON AND OUT

Relief from the cold wave by tomorrow night was promised today. The mercury will rise tomorrow, the weathermen predicted, and higher temperatures will prevail Sunday.

At the same time, however, lower pressure areas along the Pacific Coast, the weather bureau pointed out, had notified temperatures at that point in the forecast.

While waiting today for the promised break in the cold snap, Boston and New England suffered in winter temperatures. The thermometer was down to 31 degrees in Boston, but failed to rise before noon.

The coldest point on the weather map was at White River, Ontario, where the mercury dropped to 12 below. Northfield, Vt., showing a temperature of 39 above, was the coldest spot in New England.

An air flow west which accentuated the cold had abated today. The cold wave area extended from Quebec to Tennessee, but was moving out over the Atlantic Ocean. Snow flurries were reported in Northern Vermont and New Hampshire.

At Worcester the mercury dropped 21 degrees to a minimum of 11. North Adams reported a minimum of 11, while at Springfield the mercurial column sank to 19. At Concord, N. H., a record for November 11 was established at 13.7, the coldest previous November 11 was in 1913, when 16 degrees was registered.

FIRE REVEALS TAFT GAVE NO DRY INTERVIEW

Prohibition agents today seized $4000 worth of distilled alcohol and ten gallons of moonshine after a fire and explosion in a barn in the rear of No. 401 Main street, Bedford.

The place is owned by Ida M. Hodgson of Oquima, N. H. No arrests were made.

When Bedford firemen arrived flames were shooting from a window of the barn. While fighting the fire there was an explosion which shook the place.

Investigation showed a still and alcohol. The still was blown to pieces. Though damage to the building was only $100, police say more than $2000 worth of alcohol was destroyed.

MUST PAY WIFE IN TWO WEEKS OR GO TO JAIL

"Pay up in two weeks or go to jail." This, in effect, was the warning given Edward Hawkins of Dorchester today by Judge John J. Dolan.

Probate Court today ordered that for failure to pay his wife $12 a week, Mr. Hawkins must appear in court next week.

Mrs. Hawkins of Howard street, Dorchester, was given a separate maintenance decree by Judge Dolan Sept. 10.

Hawkins was ordered to pay $12 a week. His wife had paid that amount only twice. His wife claimed that when he failed to keep his payments she started contempt proceedings.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pain, Urinary or Bladder Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood.

They become sluggish and weakened then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach soars, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jax Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful a glass of water before breakfast, for a few days, and your kidneys may thank you.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, has been used for years to help flush and cleanse sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system to they longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder troubles.

Jax Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delicious effervescent lithia-water drink.

DRIVE TO SAVE CARBON TROUBLE STARTED

Two jointly filed suits to save the condemned trial of William Harrison Mayers from the electric chair were launched today by the City of Boston.

While the committee began preparations for a vigorous public campaign, in behalf of the three youths John J. Donovan, Edward J. Jett and John J. McLaughlin, their counsel, Attorney Juggins, gave broad hints of a new legal move.

With prayer and outward calm the youths themselves passed the day at Charlestown State Prison from the first shock of the death sentence that the Supreme Court had rejected their appeal.

Hope rests chiefly in future Governor Fuller to review the case and grant a commutation of sentence to life imprisonment, in the opinion of Boston lawyers. Chances of an appeal to the United States Supreme Court, highest court in the land, was believed slight.

A new State-wide appeal for moral and financial support of the City Committee's efforts to save the youths from execution, was launched tonight on January 2, at the chair, will be begun tonight at a meeting presided over by Frank J. McLaughlin, secretary of the committee.

WILLOWDEAN had taken her bag from Derry's desk. As she turned it swung against the corner with a thudding impact which brought from his owner's lips an alarmed exclamation. She opened it and took out a round shimmering object which she examined with anxious attention, turning it around in her hands with great care.

"What's that?" demanded Derry.
"One of Walter Blakey's jokes," returned the other, with relief in her voice as she set it down.

"What's the funny, wiggly thing in it?"
"That's his invention. It's part of the process. If you look at it long enough and get your mind all about the light becomes still, and there comes a soft, crawling wave of consciousness, of refreshment."
"Good!" I believe you're trying it in me."

"No, no. It's no good unless you give yourself up to it," said the other softly.
"I have been giving yourself up to it?"
"Yes, completely."
"Don't! It's uncanny. It's dangerous. I don't like it."
"It's the most fascinating thing in the world. And it's the only useful thing I've ever done in my life, help the Blackie with his experiments."

Lorchester Bay 'Ledge' Proves to Be Myth

DREDGING PROJECT IS SCILED

Discovery Ends Objections That Were Hampering 'Bigger Port' Scheme

By BERT FORD

Dredging a 30-foot channel in Lorchester Bay as an initial step in the program to develop the Port of Boston, would not be hampered by any ledge formation. Hostile experts reported that a ledge extending over a considerable portion of the proposed channel to Neponset bridge would greatly add to the expense.

That was a myth. The recent Federal survey revealed no such ledge. Debris of the survey will not be divided until the district engineer, forwarding his report to Washington, but the fact that the ledge legend was punctured has cropped out, according to Frank B. Davis, manager of the Maritime Association of Boston Chamber of Commerce, which brought about the survey after a fight.

Edward H. Delano, legislative counsel for the Lorchester Board of Trade, which gave helpful support to the Maritime Association, submitted a brief on behalf of the Lorchester business interests.

"The channel sought would make thousands of feet of land available for development and extend Boston's waterfront in a most effective manner," said Mr. Delano in his brief.

The 30-foot channel, 500 feet wide, would pass under the bridge, skirting the Boston and Milton rivers to any point of the railroad and other facilities for industrial development on land nearby.

"This section is bound to become the local shipping point for coal and lumber, especially in the event of the filling of South Bay, a definite coal trade alone, Dorchester uses about 100,000 tons of bituminous coal annually."

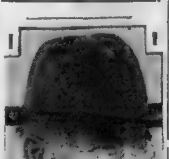

Barges are rapidly being replaced by steamers from Boston to 100 tons capacity which necessitate a deepening of the port.

"The Victory Plant, Cow Pasture and other facilities for the development of the port of Boston are in the hands of the Federal government, which has been made to Boston Inspection Thomas P. Cough and John J. Breslin. A limited extension, they said, led to the construction. The principal who lives in Malden, has since been in the city.

Congressman Protests People Shouldn't Pay Bill for Her Travels

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 11 (A.P.)—Congressman A. C. Schallenberger, of Nebraska, member of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, today said he planned to conduct an investigation "if the Burlington railroad is charging Queen Marie's trip to the American public or is transporting her free."

He believed "her trip can be borne better by the Federal government or the Rumanian government than by the overburdened taxpayers of the Middle West."

The President must pay to travel, so why should not the queen of a foreign government pay, possibly, when the railroad runs so hard put to make enough money to pay for its dividends.

"The law enacted during the administration of President Roosevelt specifically provides that every employee of the railroad and their immediate families, and not according the President of the United States, must pay when they ride on American railroads."

SALIE MOVES TO N. Y. IN BOOTH BATTLE

Boston loses one of its foremost Christian Soldiers when Lieutenant Commissioner William A. McIntire, for years director of the Salvation Army here, leaves to take up his duties as director at Atlanta, Ga.

Also Boston loses its place as Eastern headquarters for the famous charitable organization, which was first established here.

The reorganization of the Army is the latest development in a battle between brother and sister, Bramwell Booth of London and Evangeline Booth of New York. Both are the children of General William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army. Ballington Booth, another son, long ago broke with his father and founded the Volunteers of America.

For six years Bramwell Booth has tried to have his sister deposed as national commander of the Army in America. He said she had held the office too long, and it was the intention of General Booth to keep shifting the office from district to district.

Always, however, Evangeline Booth has been elected national commander.

New York supercedes Boston as Eastern headquarters and all the England branches will report to that city.

Atlanta will be the Southern headquarters with Lieutenant Commissioner McIntire to change. Chicago will be the Central headquarters with Lieutenant Commissioner John McMillin, formerly of Canada, in charge.

Evangeline Booth and in New York today she would remain national commander in America indefinitely.

McLAIN, HASKELL ACE, ON INJURED LIST

McLAIN OUT OF COMBAT AT WIGWAM

Haskell Ace Under Care of Dr. Richards; Harvard Grid Physician; Hanley Optimistic

By BILL GRIMES

"I think Dr. Thomas Richards of Harvard tells me that Maye McLain will play Boston College on Saturday without the services of the leading point guard of the country," announced Coach Dick Hanley of the Indians, as the Redskins were leaving for their morning practice at Braves Field.

McLain, the great line fullback, who was out of the game in the Loyola game last Saturday, was taken to Dr. Richards' when the Indians arrived in the Hub. The Crimson grid physician diagnosed the injury as a badly wrenched cord and said that little hope of the big leader being able to play against Boston College without running big chances of permanent injury.

McLain is to visit Dr. Richards at the afternoon and also tomorrow, and in the meantime he is to keep his head low to the injured member. Dr. Richards will pass judgment Saturday noon and his decision will be final.

Maye McLain is only a boy—continued Coach Hanley. He is but 18 years old and is playing his second year for Harvard. He is eligible for two years more and then can play three years of college football. I feel that I would be doing him a rank injustice to accede to him on Saturday.

"Even with Maye out of the line, we will give the Eagles the best argument they have run into this season," says Coach Hanley. "In fact, unless McLain is right, we will be much stronger with Louis Colby at fullback."

"Colby weighs only 155 pounds but he can hit a line with the force of a man many, many pounds heavier. After McLain was forced out of the game last Saturday, Colby went in and ripped the Loyola line to pieces. He is a peer on the defense and smart player in all departments of the game."

"Although there is no city I enjoy visiting more, there seems to be a fix in Boston that just about ruins us every year. Two years ago, I honestly don't know what it seemed but I do know that I never saw a more confused bunch of football players than my lot here. George Levi was unable to play because of an injury."

"I firmly believe that if McLain would pronounce him the greatest they have ever seen. They had a glimpse of him last year, when he was green. You remember that he ran a hundred yards for the ball four yards for a touchdown in the fourth quarter."

STAR TACKLES. "You saw Tiny Roebuck and Captain Tom Stidham play last year, and it was the opinion of almost everybody that they were two real tackles. Wait until you see this pair in action on Saturday. They are playing their last game for the college. The Redskins expect improvement displayed by Roebuck and Stidham is unbelievable, even to me. I thought that both of these boys had reached the peak last year, but they are far from there now."

"We will hold two practice sessions today, as I have not been able to work in a scrimmage since before the Loyola game. I will have one light work out tomorrow afternoon and then be ready to go to tackle Major Cavanaugh's hopes."

St. Mark's Beats Groton Eleven, 20-0
Groton, Nov. 11.—After four successive defeats at the hands of their greatest rival, St. Mark's football team defeated Groton school, 20-0, on the local field. St. Mark's superiority was greater than the score indicates.

GREEN LEAVES FOR ITHACA TODAY

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 11.—The regular daily practice of the Dartmouth football squad took place on the college campus. This was due to the slippery and muddy condition of Memorial Field.

This was the final workout of the team in Hanover before leaving for Ithaca this afternoon. The squad was without the services of Johnny Piquet who is in the hospital and also Captain Horton. Horton's injury is not improving and it is doubtful whether he will start the game on Saturday.

Jim Picken who has not been playing well, was out in logs but Hawley will probably not start him unless he improves. Eddie Doyle was in the warm-up line-up, while a Harris directed the reserve crew.

There is some talk of Hawley switching Lane to right half and Doyle to left half. The shift, however, will not be made until just before the game, if made at all. The practice consisted of a short session, tackling practice and a short scrimmage. The second team used the Cornell plays and the varsity as on the defensive.

Inside Golf

When the club is swung back with both arms working with a feeling that they are one, the club drops away from the top with the player's arms.

There cannot be the slightest doubt about the club's position at comparative rest. The club should not be taken back too far. I mean do not strain the club too far. It is not a good thing to do. Stop it short and get the good tempo that the more effort, was swing will yield. Timing is the key to the golf swing.

Coady Back for Harvard in Game with Iron Team

By TED LYNCH

83,500 Fans to Watch Seven High School Football Games

Approximately 83,500 football fans will attend the seven leading football games next Saturday afternoon. It was estimated by Greater Boston athletic directors today. This establishes a new record, according to statistics taken on November 13 last year.

The games included on the select list will be as follows. The seven leaders on card for next Saturday:

Game Place Attendance

Andover vs. Essex, Frothingham Field, Andover..... 12,000

Malden vs. Everett, Pearl Street Stadium, Malden..... 14,000

Medford vs. Waltham, Fulton Street Stadium, Medford..... 15,000

Lawrence vs. Haverhill, Haverhill High Stadium..... 15,000

Peabody vs. Lynn Classical, Francis Harry Playgrounds, Lynn..... 16,000

Newton vs. Manchester, N. H., Beth Memorial Field..... 16,000

St. Mary's vs. Salem, Belmont Field, Salem..... 16,000

Harvard hope for victory over Brown's famous Iron Eleven at the Stadium Saturday went rocketing today when it was announced that Captain Clem Coady would be back in the lineup.

The return of Coady, first stricker and a great tackle, over-shadowed the importance of the Princeton break in the minds of Crimson supporters.

The Crimson captain, who received a bad shaking up in the Princeton game, has forsaken his cane and reports ready for practice.

The recovery of Coady eliminates the probability of Henry Chauncey starting as a triple threat against the Bruins Saturday. Coady is well able to take care of the Harvard kicking department and Horween will be able to start his regular back-field of Putnam, Miller, French and Sayles.

BROWN HITS FAST PACE IN PRACTICE

Providence, Nov. 11.—The Brown regulars went through a half-hour of offensive scrimmage, during which they pried up four touchdowns against the second team.

At the Harvard line, Randall, Connor and Lawrence were going at it hard several times during the half-hour scrimmage. The Harvard line was kept busy for several minutes.

The first and second team went through long dummy series against the Polytechnic, who used Harvard plays. The Brown line showed a good knowledge of Harvard's offense and a complete mastery of the Harvard attack.

The Brown starting lineup, Randall, Connor and Lawrence, who played against Yale, will be the same as the one which played against Yale and Harvard.
